

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Better service is provided to repeating (regular) customers by linking predetermined image information with the customer personal information to thereby output the information on a display of a mobile image communication terminal such as high function and high performance mobile phone or/and a display or a printer of a personal computer.